The Cathedral of Christ the Savior is the tallest Orthodox Christian church in the world. It was destroyed in 1931 by the order of Soviet leader Joseph Stalin, but was rebuilt later on the site in 1995–2000.

The Worshipful Submission Hill (Poklonnaya Gora) overlooks the city and its surroundings. In old times, travelers used to stop here to look at the Old City and bow before entering it, this is where the name of the hill comes from.

The view you get from the Children's World Shopping Center at Lubyanka square is simply amazing. You will visualize the Old City from the very heart of the capital. And last but not least are the Sparrow Hills (Vorobyovy Gory) and Ostankino tower - the tallest freestanding structure in Europe and 11th tallest in the world (540 meters high).
